Letter to Mr "Robert Trapier", 1959,

On 22nd of October 1959
I had "Anjuna village"
in mind & the following is what I wrote to you to inform you, in short, to whom it belongs. According to the Ma'la' people, Xanthousia is known to be belonging to them as well as the village of Anjuna which is situated in the state of Gujarat in India.
The name of the village is derived from the name of the village.

rare bird which
I have just found.
It is a small
brown bird with
white wings.
The feathers
are very long
and pointed.
The tail is very long and deeply
notched.
The legs
are very long
and the feet
are very large.
The bill
is very long
and straight.
The eyes
are very large
and black.
The skin
is very thin
and delicate.
The feathers
are very soft
and pliable.
The skin
is very light
brown.
The feathers
are very dark
