A handwritten musical score consisting of ten staves. Each staff contains a series of notes and rests. The notes are written in black ink, and the rests are represented by small circles. The score is written in a cursive style. There are some markings above the notes, possibly indicating fingerings or breath marks. The paper shows signs of age, including some staining and discoloration.

ἡμεῖς ὁ Θεός

The musical notation consists of six staves. Each staff begins with a black neume (a stylized symbol for a note or group of notes) and is followed by a series of purple Greek letters (alpha, beta, gamma, delta, epsilon, zeta, eta, theta, iota, kappa, lambda, mu, nu, xi, omicron, pi, rho, sigma, tau, upsilon, phi, chi, psi, omega) which serve as a shorthand for the melody. Small red brackets are placed above the letters to indicate rhythmic values or phrasing. The text is written in a cursive, handwritten style.
